FRIDAY, JUNE 3.

President Cleveland says that the commission of fraud on the ballot-box "is the worst of crimes." And yet by that sort of "crime" will the democratic party continue to make the south solid.

Senator Pugh, of Alabama, takes $100 worth of stock in the opinion that Cleve-land will be renominated and reelected. Col. Sayer, the quarter-milliner of Birmingham, is the party who differs with him in this opinion.

The women of St. Louis, who belong to the public library association, will soon vote on the book they like best! Probably their modesty will prevent them from voting for the book they most dearly prize—the pocket book.

There will be no limited train between Chicago and St. Paul this year. The time of a couple of trains between the two cities has been cut down to fourteen hours instead of eighteen, and the limited trains would no longer make much of a reduction in time.

Lyman D. Follett, judge of Probate at Grand Rapids, Mich., has disappeared, leaving an indebtedness of about $20,000. It is said that speculation in the Chicago grain market led to his downfall. From Chicago, Monday last, he sent his resignation as probate judge to Governor Luce.

The Boston Herald, the noted muckrapping paper, thinks it about time to call a halt, and gives the administration this note of warning: "There are about democrats enough in office at present. The next good departure would be to stop making changes at all for political causes."

George Eliot was 38 when her first story was published: "Mrs. Stowe was 39 when 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' appeared; Mrs. Browning wrote her best poetry after her marriage at 37; Helen Hunt Jackson won her fame after she was 40; and Louisa M. Alcott's first good story was published when she was 37. Genius appears to require years of patient work for its development.

The gracious compliment of the Atlantic Constitution, democratic, to Minister Phelps, democratic: "There can be no doubt that the democratic party of this country has a tremendous load to carry in the person of Phelps, American Minister to England. He is the most ridiculous shanty conceivable—the most unmitigated scab the Republic has yet produced."

There are still 9,000,000 acres of public lands in Colorado, 12,000,000 in Arizona, 30,000,000 in California, 40,000,000 in Dakota, 7,000,000 in Florida, 44,000,000 in Idaho, 7,000,000 in Minnesota, 41,000,000 in Utah, 20,000,000 in Washington Territory, and some millions of acres in other states and territories. Talk about the socialists wanting land. But they want without working for it.

The Hon. Charles Loring, of Minotow, has been reappointed on the State board of supervision by Governor Rusk, for the term of five years. Mr. Loring has been a member of the board since its organization in 1881, and has proved a most efficient member. He is one of the brightest and most successful business men in the state; and besides that is a gentleman of splendid judgment and of unclouded integrity. It is a fact, as well as a proper thing to say, that in all the state there cannot be found a more capable, fitting and worthy man for such a responsible position. It is most gratifying to know that Mr. Loring's reappointment came unsought by him. He is just the man for the place, and Governor Rusk appreciating this fact, made the appointment from a sense of duty toward the state institutions.

Mr. Marvin Hight, who has been elected to the presidency of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, has had a remarkably successful career. He entered railway service in 1863 as telegraph operator at a small station on the Chicago & Alton railway; was subsequently passenger conductor and chief train dispatcher successively. About 1862 he entered the service of the Illinois Central railroad, serving successively as station agent, assistant to the general superintendent of the Pullman Palace Car company, and afterward assistant superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, from March 1, 1872, to date he has been with the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. Up to May 1, 1870, he was general superintendent, from May, 1876, to June, 1880, he was superintendent and general manager, and from June, 1880, to date second vice-president and general manager. June 1, 1887, to date he had been a director; from December 10, 1882, to date he has been president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad. He is regarded as one of the greatest railroad managers in the world.

THE STATE BOARD OF SUPERVISION.

At a meeting of the state board of supervision, held at its office in the Capitol on Thursday, the officers for the ensuing year were elected. Charles Loring was retained in the position of president, which he has so ably filled; Lewis A. Proctor was assigned the vice-presidency, and D. S. Comly again holds the secretaryship.

The contracts for the erection of a main building, two cottages, and a boiler house at the school at Sparta were let to J. W. Buckley, of Indianapolis, his bid being $14,750.

Work on the main building will begin as soon as the arrangements can be completed by the board. The State Journal says: "The board exhibits a practical, business-like economical disposition toward the public matters in its care, and has performed its duties in a wise and judicious manner. It has the confidence of the public. It appreciates that confidence as is shown from the fact that with an appropriation of $65,000 for the building at Sparta, it has accepted plans that enable suitable buildings erected at a saving of $20,225."

FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING.

Some of the points made by Senator Sherman in his Springfield speech, are worthy of being remembered by every thoughtful man. They are that the republican design of improvement of great internal waterways has been threatened by a democratic President who could not rest long enough from vetoing pension bills to sign a river and harbor bill. The carrying trade of the world remains undisputed, and indeed our own carrying trade remains in foreign hands, because a majority of rebel brigadiers was hostile to subsidizing ocean mail carriers. The treasury surplus is increasing, and there is no democratic policy for its decrease. "The books" have been "opened," and no sign of republican fraud or shortage discovered. Republican theory has been superseded by any distinct democratic policy, and republican practice has been proven by investigations conducted by democrats to have been prudent and honest. Ninety-one consuls, ambassadors, and secretaries of legation are men who served in the Confederate army; they served, for the most part, supplanted Union soldiers. "More than a majority of all the leading officers who represent us abroad in the diplomatic or consular service to the confederacy as soldiers or citizens."

In closing, Senator Sherman said: "The republican party has justified itself in war and in peace. It is the only party that can give you a national patriotic, liberty-loving, frank-acting, and business administration. It enters into the lists this year, and next, with no crimes to repeat, or no apologies to make, no people deprived by it of their rights. It will again appeal to the people, asking only an honest vote and fair count."

UNFULFILLED PROMISES.

The Philadelphia Times, the chief among the independent democratic newspapers of the east, makes this comment on surplus revenue question: "It is now certain that the surplus revenue that will be accumulated in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year will not be less than $75,000,000 and is more likely to reach $100,000,000. In other words, we are taxing the industrial and business energies of the country from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually more than is necessary for the maintenance of the government, and the payment for the interest of the public debt. It is not only an enormous exaction upon the wealth of the country, but it is an open invitation to profligacy in legislation and to venality in every department of the government."

There is much significance to this paragraph, for the reason that the Times supported the democratic party in 1884, for the alleged reason that if Cleveland was elected his influence would cause a reduction of the revenue surplus. The Times, as well as all other democratic papers was unceasing in its attacks on the republican policy of revenue collection, and all sorts of promises were made that if Cleveland and a democratic congress were elected there would be a reform in taxation and a decrease in the surplus. But these promises were not made good. There is not a prominent democratic paper in the country that has not sharply criticised the administration for its failure to redeem its pledges in regard to the revenue. The New York World, which gave Cleveland and his party its implicit support, makes the humble confession that its own party has no ground on which to stand in asking for the confidence of the people. In a late issue it says: "It would help the democratic party in the fall elections to show a determined purpose to redeem its pledge to reduce the needless war taxes. As matters now stand upon what adequate ground can it ask for a vote of confidence?"

All clear-headed business men see that the treasury is probably too large, that the treasury cannot get rid of it without purchasing bonds at a high premium or resorting to measures of doubtful legality, and that there is no probability that congress can agree on any measure that will effect a reduction. Practical business men could easily cut off say fifty millions of revenue and not harm the reviving industries of the country. But the majority of the members of congress are not practical business men, and therefore one cannot hope that congress will reform the revenue.

Disease and Death.

Force their way into many a household that might be protected from their incursions, by the simple practice of keeping in the house that boughs family medicine and safeguard of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Particularly where there are children, should it be kept at hand, as a prompt remedy for infantile complaints, in their earliest easily conquerable, but when it is allowed to engross themselves on the delicate child, it becomes a most easily dislodged, and speedily a veritable mischievous. Irregularity of bowels, indigestion and biliousness are ailments of common occurrence in the households. Children, living in malarious regions, are more liable to be attacked with chills and fever than adults, and the ravages of that full disease in their system are speedier and more serious. In remote localities, far from professional aid it is especially desirable.

Babies that are frosty, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence it is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by Proctor & Evanson O. P. O.

—Yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, in the town of Janesville, the Rev. W. C. Whitford united in marriage Frank E. Clark and Miss Emma E. Baldwin, husband and wife. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. W. Baldwin, or the third ward. On account of the prominence of the parties, it was one of the notable social events of the season. The guests present numbered nearly one hundred. Among them were many of the best known people of the city, while a few of those from outside the city were Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Baldwin, of Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Ordway, Chicago; Miss Minnie Avery, Humboldt, Iowa; Miss Nellie Marcy, Delavan, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Clark, Chicago, parents of the groom; Miss Nettie Coon, Miss Pebe Gilbert, Miss Libbie Steer, Mr. and Mrs. Whitford and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Stetson, all of Milton.

The bride was most charmingly attired her costume being of white Failla Franca with pearl embroidered front and ornate train. It was trimmed with pearl passementerie and Duchess and round point lace. To give a description of her presents would be impossible. They were numerous and costly and showed the esteem in which the fair recipient is held.

All of the appointments were both tasteful and elegant. Banks of rare flowers lent color to the scene and filled the air with perfume. The upper service was faultless and drew many compliments.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark started for St. Paul this morning. After visiting that city they will return to Chicago, where the groom is engaged in the real estate business. If the wishes of their friends come true then their future will indeed be a happy one.

BEINS—GESSNER.

We find the following in the Bloomington, Ill., Bulletin, of May 20, which will be somewhat of a surprise to Mr. Beins many friends in Janesville. Nevertheless all will join in wishing him and his life-partner a long and prosperous future.
